FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Viatronix Incorporated announces the latest release of its V3D-Colon® software now offering the first 510(k) approved colon CAD for the U.S. market

August 11th, 2010. Viatronix Incorporated, a Stony Brook, New York, based company announced the release of the latest version of its leading edge V3D-Colon software with the option to have the industry's first FDA 510(k) approved colon CAD, VeraLook™ by iCAD.

“We believe colon CAD when integrated with our latest V3D-Colon module provides the reading physician a distinct advantage along with an additional level of confidence,” said Zaffar Hayat, President and CEO of Viatronix Incorporated. “The seamless integration of third party CAD products into our user friendly interface results in an uninterrupted workflow for the user”.

The optional VeraLook Colon CAD module provides a list of CAD marks which are displayed in a numbered list along with bold colored markers on both 2D and 3D images while navigating through the Viatronix V3D-Colon interface. V3D-Colon with the CAD option has been available outside the U.S. since early 2009 and now with FDA approval colon CAD is available for sale in the United States.
